Blank (i)	Blank (ii)	Blank (iii)
formulates	untrue	document its facts
deflects	hackneyed	gauge its veracity
disavows	unexceptional	explain its appeal

Questions 4 to 5 are based on the following passage.

Ecologists tend to focus on pristine environments and ignore urban areas. Human beings, and especially their cities, fail to fit neatly into ecological theory—they are seen as an exogenous, perturbing force in nature. Yet people are a global force capable of affecting every ecosystem on the planet. In cities, people mobilize some nutrients and deplete others, create habitats that never before existed, increase temperatures, and, by intent or by accident, manipulate the communities of other species found within city boundaries and beyond. If there is a laboratory where ecological change can be viewed at close hand, it is the city. The processes and dynamics within cities, however, largely elude understanding based on traditional ecological theories.

Question 4 RC 복수

Consider each of the choices separately and select all that apply.

It can be inferred from the passage that which of the following statements about traditional ecological theories is true?

- ☐ A They are inadequate for studying the processes and dynamics of cities.
- ☐ B They explain and predict the consequences of human interactions with nature.
- ☐ C They exaggerate the negative effects human beings have on ecosystems.

Question 5 RC

Select one answer choice.

According to the passage, human beings do not fit neatly into ecological theory for which of the following reasons?

- ○ A Habitat change in cities happens more quickly than elsewhere.
- ○ B Human beings in cities deplete more nutrients than they mobilize.
- ○ C Human beings are a global force capable of affecting every ecosystem.
- ○ D Human beings create habitats that never before existed.
- ○ E Human beings are not viewed as a component of nature.

Question 6 SE

Select the two answer choices that produce completed sentences that are alike in meaning.

Since responsibility for content is often _____ in multiauthor papers, it is easy to suppose that such papers may contain more instances of questionable academic practices than do papers by a single author.

- ☐ A ignored
- ☐ B diluted
- ☐ C disputed
- ☐ D weakened
- ☐ E highlighted
- ☐ F foregrounded

Question 7 SE

Select the two answer choices that produce completed sentences that are alike in meaning.

Motorcycle riders in London have discovered an ingenious, albeit _____, way of parking illegally without getting a ticket.

- ☐ A inventive
- ☐ B unscrupulous
- ☐ C astute
- ☐ D dishonest
- ☐ E impractical
- ☐ F shrewd

Question 8 SE

Select the two answer choices that produce completed sentences that are alike in meaning.

The simplicity of Ann Hamilton's sculpture, a single drop of water snaking its way down a vast white wall, _____ the elaborate technical apparatus hidden beneath its surface.

- ☐ A minimized
- ☐ B undermined
- ☐ C belied
- ☐ D contradicted
- ☐ E conjured
- ☐ F evoked

Question 9 SE

Select the two answer choices that produce completed sentences that are alike in meaning.

Sports stars are often _____ figures, regarded as representative of the city or country for which they compete.

- ☐ A totemic
- ☐ B iconoclastic
- ☐ C protean
- ☐ D idealized
- ☐ E irreverent
- ☐ F emblematic

Questions 10 to 12 are based on the following passage.

Eighteenth-century women played a significant part in British political life. Up and down the social scale, they performed a variety of political acts, everything from purchasing political artifacts such as plates, handkerchiefs, and fans to penning political pamphlets, starving themselve in civic processions, sponsoring boycotts, arguing over public issues in their own debating societies, rioting, and uttering seditious words. Whereas historians used to see female political involvement in this century as isolated or aberrant, they now stress the continuity and normalcy of such activity, especially for aristocratic women. Given the familial nature of aristocratic politics, noble women were actually expected to act as political advisors and agents for their husbands, to canvass in elections, to serve as political hostesses, to seek and dispense political patronage. They did so routinely long before the eighteenth and deep into the nineteenth century. Patrician women had so much far-reaching political influence, it has been argued recently, that they actually stood to lose by expansion of the electorate to include women. Fruitful as this new historiography has been, however, it has also been criticized for its focus on the machinations of high politics and its inattention to ideology. Given the widespread hostility to "public" women in the eighteenth century, was female political activity quite so unproblematic as these new studies tend to assume? Anna Clark has pointed out that celebration of elite politicizing neglects both the condition of ordinary women and the nitpicking contemporary attacks on just this sort of upper-class influence peddling.

Question 10 RC

Select one answer choice.

The author would most likely agree with which of the following statements about political acts performed by eighteenth-century women?

○A They had little influence on the outcome of elections.

○B They were aimed largely at the expansion of the electorate.

○C They probably were discouraged by men with political aspirations.

○D They represented a new development in British society.

○E They were sometimes perceived as being negative.

Question 11 RC

(Highlighted portion: "expansion of the electorate to include women")

Select one answer choice.

The author suggested which of the following about the "expansion of the electorate to include women" in the eighteenth-century Britain?

○A It might have reduced women's incentives to engage in such political activities as boycotts and riots.

○B It might have reduced the political power of some people who had exerted great influence.

○C It would have been unlikely to overturn the aristocracy's political control of the country.

○D It would likely have extended the vote only to aristocratic women.

○E It was not an issue addressed by men who were engaged in politics.

Question 12 RC

Select one answer choice.

Which of the following statements best describes the function of the highlighted sentence?

○A It reinterprets an explanation originated by historians who contributed to the “new historiography”.

○B It questions the accuracy of evidence presented in the service of the “new historiography”.

○C It identifies issues that have been overlooked by the “new historiography”.

○D It highlights claims of the “new historiography” that have been neglected.

○E It defends the “new historiography” against an unwarranted criticism.

Question 1 TC 1빈칸

For the blank, select the entry that best completes the text.

As British biochemist Joseph Needham became immersed in the study of China's history, he began to envision science as _____ endeavor, noting that "the peoples of the whole world have all made their contributions."

- ○A an ecumenical
- ○B a competitive
- ○C a redemptive
- ○D a misunderstood
- ○E an underappreciated

Question 2 TC 2빈칸

For each blank, select one entry from the corresponding column of choices.

Mowry believes that effective politics demands a synthesis of the practical and the visionary. He has never had much trouble coming up with (i) _____. But these days, he also thinks he has become better at relating that larger picture directly to (ii) _____ policies.

Blank (i)	Blank (ii)
effective political strategies	inspired
grand political ideas	workable
a dispassionate reading of the political mood	idealistic

Question 3 TC 2빈칸

For each blank, select one entry from the corresponding column of choices.

In spite of its rather (i) _____ subject matter, Brinkley's is (ii) _____ work, one that is moderated by grace and restraint and tempered by an economy that in no way suggests timidity.

Blank (i)	Blank (ii)
coarse	an indifferent
sophisticated	a subtle
endearing	an upsetting

Question 4 TC 3빈칸

For each blank, select one entry from the corresponding column of choices.

Among chess aficionados, there have been many doomsday scenarios about people (i) _____ the game as a result of the superiority of computer chess programs over human players. Others have replied to this with variations on the theme of how we still hold footraces despite cars going much faster, but this analogy is (ii) _____ since cars do not help humans run faster while chess computers undoubtedly have an effect on the (iii) _____ of human chess.

Blank (i)	Blank (ii)	Blank (iii)
losing interest in	ineluctable	popularity
redoubling their efforts at	transparent	quality
struggling to master	spurious	accessibility

Questions 5 to 6 are based on the following passage.

The period between the two world wars (1918-1939) was characterized by a broadening of the definition of women's roles in the United States. In 1920, American women won the right to vote; building on this right, some now participated actively in politics. Increasing numbers of middle-class women joined their working-class contemporaries in the workplace, and a small but growing minority of them continued working after marriage. Divorce rates increased as work patterns and women's expectations of marriage changed. While these trends continued throughout the interwar period, their momentum was slowed in its later years, as the prosperity of the 1920s abruptly ended. Many Americans responded to the economic crisis of the 1930s by reasserting traditional value that discouraged women from entering traditionally male occupations.

Question 5 RC 복수

(Highlighted portion: "Divorce rates")

Consider each of the choices separately and select all that apply.

The author mentions divorce rates in order to

- ☐ A suggest one possible reason for the number of unmarried women in the workplace
- ☐ B Show one effect of the broadening of the definition of women's roles during the interwar period
- ☐ C Identify a likely cause for the growing number of middle-class women in the workplace

Question 6 RC 복수

Consider each of the choices separately and select all that apply.

Which of the following can be inferred from the passage about American women in the workplace during the interwar period?

- ☐ A Most middle-class women in the workplace were unmarried
- ☐ B Most working-class women in the workplace were married
- ☐ C Working-class women were active in the workplace from the beginning of the period

Questions 7 to 9 are based on the following passage.

To evaluate any given intellectual property policy, we must weigh the costs and benefits of awarding copyright protection. If an innovation and the benefits of the protection are nonexistent, then, by the cost-benefit criterion, it is unwarranted. Such a situation arose in 1998, when the United States Congress extended the term of copyright from 50 years after an author's death to 70. Book buyers are harmed by this. A book's price is higher under copyright because the publisher continues to owe royalties to the author's heirs and does not compete with others printing the same book. Against that drawback, there is no countervailing benefit. Authors are hardly likely to find motivation in the prospect of earnings that will arrive more than 50 years after their death. Moreover, the extension was applied retroactively to existing copyrights—but authors do not need incentives to write books they have already written.

Question 7 RC

Select one answer choice.

The primary purpose of the passage is to

○A argue that intellectual property policies are often unwarranted

○B show how a particular criterion can be used to evaluate an intellectual property policy

○C summarize the costs and benefits of introducing intellectual property policies

○D approve the reasoning that was used to justify a particular intellectual property policy

○E challenge a claim that the benefits of intellectual property policies outweigh the costs

Question 8 RC

(Highlighted portion: "royalties")

Select one answer choice.

The author mentions "royalties" primarily in order to identify

○A a benefit that is likely to motivate authors

○B a way in which publishers compete with one another

○C a factor that contributes to a negative effect of copyright

○D a reason underlying Congress, actions regarding copyright

○E an unintended effect of extending the term of copyright

Question 9 RC

Select one answer choice.

It can be inferred that which of the following assumptions underlies the statement in the highlighted sentence?

○A Concern for their heirs is not a factor that motivates authors to publish.

○B Authors are motivated by factors other than the prospect of financial gain.

○C Sales of a book are unlikely to change after its author's death.

○D Publishers tend to act in their own best interest rather than in the author's.

○E The earnings of most authors tend to decline over time.

Question 10 SE

Select the two answer choices that produce completed sentences that are alike in meaning.

The author's point is not that people should be _____ science; he is careful to point out that what science is discovering about humans, for example, is certainly important and worthy of careful consideration.

- ☐ A skeptical toward
- ☐ B dismissive of
- ☐ C ignorant of
- ☐ D zealous regarding
- ☐ E scornful of
- ☐ F passionate about

Question 11 SE

Select the two answer choices that produce completed sentences that are alike in meaning.

Many people perceive an unearned grandiosity at work in the news business, and given that perception, it should be no surprise that they have such a strong _____ for the business.

- ☐ A preference
- ☐ B passion
- ☐ C esteem
- ☐ D disdain
- ☐ E fervor
- ☐ F contempt

Question 12 SE

Select the two answer choices that produce completed sentences that are alike in meaning.

The current _____ of repackaged music under Miles Davis' name might prompt any reasonable person to conclude that the recording vault has been plundered bare.

- ☐ A glut
- ☐ B revival
- ☐ C hodgepodge
- ☐ D surfeit
- ☐ E modicum
- ☐ F dearth

Question 13 is based on the following passage.

A hoard of coins recently unearthed at an ancient Carthagian site bear an image of a face in profile with what appears to be a large mole on the cheek. Pointing out that an artist would be unlikely to include such a specific detail in a generalized portrayal of a face, some archaeologists have concluded that these coins portray an actual individual rather than an idealized type. However, this conclusion is unwarranted, since _____.

Question 13 CR

Select one answer choice.

Which of the following most logically completes the argument?

○A archaeologists cannot determine the actual identity of the individual portrayed just from the likeness that appears on the coins

○B it cannot be established with certainty that Carthagian artists were on the whole less skillful at portraying human face than artists of other cultures

○C none of the other designs of Carthagian coins that have been discovered features a face with a mole on it

○D in ancient times it was quite common for the money circulated in a city or country to include coins that originated in other jurisdictions

○E the relatively soft metal used for Carthagian coin molds sometimes resulted in the production of series of coins with unintended bumps

Questions 14 to 15 are based on the following passage.

After the identification of three of the main macronutrients that plants need to grow—nitrogen, phosphorus, and potassium (N-P-K)—and the development of manufactured nitrogen fertilizer in the 1910s, agricultural soils began receiving large doses of N-P-K but little else. Early agronomists overlooked the importance of biological activity provided by the underground ecosystem of soil microbes, earthworms, and Mycorrhizal fungi. Chemical fertilizers such as N-P-K depress this activity, increasing plants' vulnerability to pests and diseases. They might also diminish crops' nutritional quality, which has declined substantially since the widespread adoption of chemical fertilizers. Some researchers attribute this decline to the condition of the soil; others cite the tendency of modern plant breeding to select for characteristics such as yield rather than nutritional quality.

Question 14 RC

Select one answer choice.

According to the passage, which of the following typically distinguishes soil nourished exclusively by N-P-K fertilizers from unfertilized soils?

○A Lower average yields

○B Higher earthworm populations

○C Slower crop growth

○D Less microbial activity

○E Increased resistance to pests

Question 15 RC

Select one answer choice.

The author of the passage would most likely agree that the widespread use of N-P-K fertilizers

- ○A has encouraged plant breeders to select for yield rather than other characteristics
- ○B caused early agronomists to ignore the importance of biological activity in soils
- ○C has diverted attention away from the nutritional value of crops
- ○D spurred attempts to reproduce the effect of microbial activity in the soil
- ○E has resulted in plants that are less hardy
