GRE Verbal Reasoning

모의고사 Set 31 — 문제지

Section 1: 12문항 / 18분 · Section 2: 15문항 / 23분 (고난도)
TC 7 · SE 7 · RC/CR 13 | 난이도 S1 2.3 / S2 2.5

- SE는 정확히 두 개, 복수선택(select all)은 해당하는 것 모두를 골라야 정답입니다.
- 정답과 해설은 별도 해설지에 있습니다.

답안 기록표

| S1 | 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | 5 | 6 | 7 | 8 | 9 | 10 | 11 | 12 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 답 | | | | | | | | | | | | |

| S2 | 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | 5 | 6 | 7 | 8 | 9 | 10 | 11 | 12 | 13 | 14 | 15 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 답 | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | |

Section 1 12 Questions · 18 Minutes

Question 1 TC 1빈칸

For the blank, select the entry that best completes the text.

The _____ repeating real-time climatological measurements largely prevents correcting inaccurate readings made in the past.

- ○A need for
- ○B impossibility of
- ○C history of
- ○D consensus about
- ○E approach to

Question 2 TC 2빈칸

For each blank, select one entry from the corresponding column of choices.

Seemingly to compensate for the (i)_____ nature of her subject, in her review the theater critic (ii)_____ a casual chatty style.

| Blank (i) | Blank (ii) |
|---|---|
| undemanding | opted for |
| rarefied | misused |
| well-defined | invited |

Question 3 TC 3빈칸

For each blank, select one entry from the corresponding column of choices.

Why Zona Gale—a Pulitzer Prize-winning writer whose novels were both a critical and popular success—has fallen so far out of the literary canon is the fascinating subject of Deborah Lindsay Williams' recent book. Williams concludes that Gale's embrace of literary (i) _____ accounts for her eventual decline in reputation. Gale sought professional affiliation with other women writers of many stripes, and Williams contends that she has therefore been (ii) _____ by a later literary paradigm that favors (iii) _____ as a marker of artistic prowess.

| Blank (i) | Blank (ii) | Blank (iii) |
|---|---|---|
| fame | marginalized | sociological accuracy |
| conservatism | studied | bold risk-taking |
| sisterhood | overrated | individual exceptionalism |

Questions 4 to 5 are based on the following passage.

Animals live longer when their calorie intake is restricted to two-thirds of what is considered normal for their species. Animals so restricted are also generally healthier: most diseases, including cancer, diabetes, and neurodegenerative illness, are forestalled. This phenomenon was long attributed to a simple slowing of metabolism (cells' production of energy from fuel molecules) and consequent reproduction of its toxic by-products in response to less food. In fact, however, calorie restriction does not slow mammalian metabolism and in yeast and worms, metabolism is both sped up and altered. Some scientists now theorize that calorie restriction is a biological stressor that, like natural food scarcity, induces a more complex defensive response, which in mammals includes changes in cellular defenses and repair.

Question 4 RC

Select one answer choice.

In the passage, the function of the highlighted portion is to

○A Provide specific examples of organisms whose longevity does not increase in response to calorie restriction

○B Illustrate the probable means by which organisms placed on a calorie-restriction diet compensate for the reduction in available food-based level

○C Suggest the mechanism that is responsible for prolonging the life of organism whose calorie intake is significantly reduced

○D Give an example that explain why scientists' thinking about the physiological effects of calorie restriction changed

○E Distinguish the different ways that mammalian and non-mammalian metabolisms respond to significant reductions in calorie intake

Question 5 RC 복수

(Highlighted portion: "This phenomenon was long attributed to a simple slowing of metabolism")

Consider each of the choices separately and select all that apply.

The passage implies which of the following about the explanation mentioned in the highlighted portion?

☐A There are empirical findings that conflict with a presumption of the explanation.

☐B The explanation predicts that the effect of calorie restriction on longevity will be the greatest for the species with the highest rate of metabolism.

☐C The explanation predicts that the effects of calorie restriction will be uniformly positive.

Question 6 SE

Select the two answer choices that produce completed sentences that are alike in meaning.

Yang Hong's studies of ancient Chinese tombs transcribe the tombs' epitaphs and inscriptions, noting whether these texts corroborate available information about the deceased's life or ancestry or _____ it by presenting biographical material not found elsewhere.

- ☐ A disseminate
- ☐ B contradict
- ☐ C supplement
- ☐ D obviate
- ☐ E augment
- ☐ F promulgate

Question 7 SE

Select the two answer choices that produce completed sentences that are alike in meaning.

When Ms. Alvarez campaigns, she tends to _____ small towns, most of her campaign appearances occur in large population centers and media markets.

- ☐ A denigrate
- ☐ B eschew
- ☐ C romanticize
- ☐ D shun
- ☐ E castigate
- ☐ F overlook

Question 8 SE

Select the two answer choices that produce completed sentences that are alike in meaning.

The Red Sea town of Aydhab presents scholars with _____: medieval records describe it as a major port for ships engaged in trade, yet today there is no trace of a viable harbor at the site.

- ☐ A an illusion
- ☐ B a contradiction
- ☐ C a chimera
- ☐ D a puzzle
- ☐ E an anachronism
- ☐ F a conundrum

Question 9 SE

Select the two answer choices that produce completed sentences that are alike in meaning.

The author argued that the industrial agricultural system that prevails in the United States is unsustainable and, therefore, anything that _____ it should be questioned.

- ☐ A streamlines
- ☐ B reinforces
- ☐ C encumbers
- ☐ D buttresses
- ☐ E endangers
- ☐ F hampers

Questions 10 to 12 are based on the following passage.

> Though long acknowledged internationally as one of India's major nonfiction writers, Nirad Chaudhuri (1897-1999), largely because of controversial political opinions, has been shunned by much of the Indian intelligentsia and his work had been unavailable to Indian readers until 1997. In fact, only since then has his 1951 《Autobiography》, the book that made his international reputation, been brought back into print in India after an absence of many years. Though he has enjoyed support among novelists—VS. Naipaul has called the 《Autobiography》 a great book about the English colonization of India, and Doris Lessing has called it "one of the great books of the twentieth century"—Chaudhuri's work has been more discussed than read. For example, until recently none of his books were available in the United States, but a critical work about him is a standard university text. At his best, says William Dalrymple, Chaudhuri is a superb writer of descriptive prose; but in his sometimes indulgent meandering and excessive allusion, Chaudhuri's work resembles that of a later Indian writer of genius, Salman Rushdie.

Question 10 RC

Select one answer choice.

According to the passage, which of the following is true about Chaudhuri's work?

- ○ A Most of it is now available in print in India.
- ○ B Its ornate prose style has made it unpopular with many Indian readers.
- ○ C lts political sentiments were more defensible in the context of the 1950s than they were in the context of the 1990s.
- ○ D It contains political sentiments unpopular with many Indian intellectuals.
- ○ E In the opinion of many writers, its merit lies primarily in its treatment of historical issues.

Question 11 RC

Select one answer choice.

It can be inferred that the author of the passage would agree with which of the following statements about Chaudhuri's work?

○A It was widely admired by Indian academics, but little known by academics in other countries.

○B It was respected internationally by writers of nonfiction, but virtually unknown among English novelists.

○C It was respected internationally and by certain major writers, but not widely read in Chaudhuri's native country.

○D It was greatly influential among creative writers in India, but undervalued by creative writers in the United States and England.

○E It has only recently been discovered by literary critics and by university faculty in both the United States and lndia.

Question 12 RC

Select one answer choice.

It can be inferred that the author of the passage most probably mentions Salman Rushdie as an example of a writer who

○A has contributed to Chaudhuri's growing international prestige

○B shares certain of Chaudhuri's shortcomings

○C has been heavily influenced in literary style by Chaudhuri's work

○D differs from Chaudhuri in his political views

○E is often contrasted with Chaudhuri in university courses about Indian writers

Section 2 15 Questions · 23 Minutes

Question 1 TC 1빈칸

For the blank, select the entry that best completes the text.

The movie has a surfeit of inscrutable characters and tortuous subplots, so it is no surprise that viewers leaving the recent screening appeared _____.

- ○A complacent
- ○B phlegmatic
- ○C nonplussed
- ○D unsated
- ○E beguiled

Question 2 TC 2빈칸

For each blank, select one entry from the corresponding column of choices.

By using (i) _____ prose throughout, the contributors to this anthology have been able to make their subject seem (ii) _____ in the extreme—of concern only to one another.

| Blank (i) | Blank (ii) |
|---|---|
| luminous | parochial |
| esoteric | pragmatic |
| colloquial | egalitarian |

Question 3 TC 3빈칸

For each blank, select one entry from the corresponding column of choices.

Paleoclimatic records recovered from land, the ocean, and glacial ice (i) _____ a (ii) _____ global climate over much of the last glacial cycle. Indeed, in many locations in the Northern Hemisphere, changes in climate spanning almost the full range of glacial to interglacial conditions were so (iii) _____ that the transition between climate states occurred in decades or less.

| Blank (i) | Blank (ii) | Blank (iii) |
|---|---|---|
| exaggerate | potent driver of | abrupt |
| confirm | simple fact about | unpredictable |
| redefine | lack of stability in | enduring |

Question 4 TC 3빈칸

For each blank, select one entry from the corresponding column of choices.

The traditional set of nine planets could have been retained by defining a planet as any object that has the unique combination of characteristics of any one of the nine objects that were considered planets in the late twentieth century. That definition would not be (i) _____; that is, it does not contradict the evidence. Its (ii) _____, however, renders it less (iii) _____ than definitions based on astronomical criteria, such as orbit, size, and gravitation.

| Blank (i) | Blank (ii) | Blank (iii) |
|---|---|---|
| paradoxical | arbitrariness | expedient |
| subjective | inconsistency | stable |
| false | generality | defensible |

Questions 5 to 6 are based on the following passage.

Edith Wharton's reputation may be secure, but it is the wrong kind of reputation: she is celebrated as a novelist concerned with elegant surfaces and manners. Critics have misunderstood the nature of her contribution to modern fiction largely because they misperceive her subject matter as genteel and effete. Even sympathetic critics fail to acknowledge the extent to which Wharton challenged contemporary mores. Between her early novel, 《The House of Mirth》 (1905) and her last, 《The Buccaneers》 (1938), Wharton addressed subjects that many might think of as decidedly un-Whartonesque, including marital strife and rural and urban poverty. Yet she remains firmly enshrined as a scion of rarefied, upper-class America, an image reinforced by Martin Scorsese's sumptuous 1993 film adaptation of 《The Age of Innocence》.

Question 5 RC

Select one answer choice.

The author would most likely agree with which of the following statements about Scorsese's film adaptation of 《The Age of Innocence》?

○A It is not as true to the novel as are other film adaptations of Wharton's works.

○B It has encouraged a misguided impression of Wharton and her work.

○C It was based on a highly unusual interpretation of 《The Age of Innocence》.

○D It did some damage to Wharton's reputation as a major figure in modern fiction.

○E It spent too much time dwelling on subject matter that many would consider un-Whartonesque.

Question 6 RC

Select one answer choice.

The author implies which of the following about the challenge referred to in the highlighted sentence ("Even sympathetic … mores.")?

○A It goes against the main current of modern fiction.

○B It has recently become a matter of scholarly controversy.

○C It became bolder and more pronounced at the end of Wharton's career.

○D It does not manifest itself in Wharton's novel《The Age of Innocence》.

○E It spanned all or nearly all of Wharton's writing career.

Questions 7 to 9 are based on the following passage.

In 1776, the state of New Jersey adopted a constitution that ignored gender in its suffrage clause, defining voters simply as adult residents worth at least fifty pounds. After 1776, women routinely participated in the state's electoral process, until, in 1801, the state legislature passed a law redefining voters solely as adult White male taxpaying citizens. Political historians have been perplexed by New Jersey's deviation from the established norm of exclusive male suffrage, finding no sign of public agitation either for or against the voting rights of women prior to their enfranchisement in 1776 or disenfranchisement in 1801. Consequently, historians have downplayed the extent to which suffrage resulted from careless constitutional construction and have viewed the 1801 disenfranchisement as a legislative effort to remedy this carelessness. Yet examination of revolutionary-era manuscripts indicates that the 1776 suffrage clause underwent close legislative scrutiny that led to several significant changes; thus, the absence of gender references in the final version was probably not accidental. Indeed, the evidence suggests that New Jersey's legislators believed that all who possessed sufficient net worth were entitled to vote. However, they also saw the net worth qualification as serving to prevent an overdemocratization of the voting process.

Question 7 RC

(Highlighted portion: "significant changes")

Select one answer choice.

The author of the passage takes the "significant changes" to be an indication of which of the following?

○A That the 1776 suffrage clause was not established without critical examination

○B That there was little consensus among legislators regarding the final version of the 1776 suffrage clause

○C That the 1776 suffrage clause was not a deviation from the norm that prevailed in other states

○D That there was at least some public agitation in favor of voting rights for women prior to 1776

○E That legislators in 1776 were seriously concerned about the overdemocratization of the voting process

Question 8 RC

(Highlighted portion: "However, they also saw the net worth qualification as serving to prevent an overdemocratization of the voting process.")

Select one answer choice.

Which of the following best describes the function of the last sentence of the passage?

○A To suggest that New Jersey legislators in 1776 were insincere in their commitment to voting rights for women

○B To indicate that there was a lack of consensus among New Jersey legislators regarding the final version of the 1776 suffrage clause

○C To indicate that the New Jersey legislators in 1776 did not favor unqualified access to voting rights

○D To undermine the evidence suggesting that New Jersey legislators in 1776 believed that all who possessed sufficient net worth were entitled to vote

○E To suggest that the absence of gender references in the final version of the 1776 suffrage clause may have been accidental

Question 9 RC

Select one answer choice.

The author of the passage suggests that if there had been public agitation regarding voting rights for women in New Jersey prior to 1776, then this agitation would have

○A been largely in opposition to voting rights for women rather than in favor of those rights

○B exerted an important influence on the final version of the 1776 New Jersey suffrage clause

○C potentially provided historians with an explanation for the New Jersey legislature's decision in 1776 regarding voting rights

○D made New Jersey's political culture less unusual in comparison to other states

○E made it less likely that New Jersey would disenfranchise women sometime after 1776

Question 10 SE

Select the two answer choices that produce completed sentences that are alike in meaning.

The vast majority of universities in the United States promote themselves as institutions of free speech and thought, construing censorship as _____ their search for knowledge.

☐A subordinate to

☐B obviated by

☐C secondary to

☐D antipathetic to

☐E conducive to

☐F inconsistent with

Question 11 SE

Select the two answer choices that produce completed sentences that are alike in meaning.

Stannard may be hoping to resurrect Spark's literary reputation with this book, given its _____ praise for her creative talents.

- ☐ A unctuous
- ☐ B genuine
- ☐ C grudging
- ☐ D reluctant
- ☐ E unstinting
- ☐ F generous

Question 12 SE

Select the two answer choices that produce completed sentences that are alike in meaning.

The historical study of pregnancy and childbearing began fairly recently and has been hindered by the relative _____ of records concerning these particular experiences.

- ☐ A pertinence
- ☐ B dearth
- ☐ C paucity
- ☐ D ambiguity
- ☐ E expediency
- ☐ F applicability

Question 13 is based on the following passage.

Sunlight is composed of different colors of light, which differ in how far they penetrate a given medium. Seawater is most deeply penetrated by blue light, and at depths near 1,000 meters the sunlight is almost entirely blue. However, a few fish species living at such depths have eyes with lenses tinted so that they filter out blue light but not light of any other color.

Question 13 CR

Select one answer choice.

Which of the following, if true, most helps to explain why those fish species benefit from having such lenses?

○A Most of the fish with the tinted lenses hunt from below, locating their prey by the shadows passing overhead.

○B In general, the fish with the tinted lenses feed on fish and other marine organisms that live at depths near 1,000 meters or deeper.

○C The eyes of most fish that live significantly below the surface waters can detect light of only a limited color range.

○D Most marine organisms living at depths near 1,000 meters are bioluminescent, emitting green light that is hard for most fish to distinguish from the background sunlight.

○E Below 1,000 meters there is, on average, another 3,000 meters of ocean depth in which there is no sunlight at all.

Questions 14 to 15 are based on the following passage.

While export prices remained robust, British India's Tea Cess Committee (TCC) made only sporadic, small-scale attempts to create demand for tea in India by giving away pre-brewed cups in selected locations and selling small packets of leaf fragments. Still, by 1930 only a fraction of the Indian population had tasted tea, and more than 90 percent of the crop was exported. The Great Depression decisively changed the picture, however. International tea prices plunged, and by 1935 growers faced an unsold surplus of more than a hundred million pounds. The prospect of a huge "uninitiated" market suddenly seemed appealing, and the TCC, reorganized as the Indian Tea Market Expansion Board (ITMEB) and provided with an expanded budget, began the largest marketing campaign in Indian history.

Question 14 RC

(Highlighted portion: "small packets of leaf fragments")

Select one answer choice.

The passage suggests that "small packets of leaf fragments" were

○A preferred by Indian consumers over other forms of tea

○B too valuable to be sold in large packets to consumers

○C marketed in response to a local surplus of unsold tea leaves

○D likely to sell for high prices if exported

○E an ineffective way to expand the local tea market

Question 15 RC

Select one answer choice.

It can be inferred from the passage that the Tea Cess Committee reorganized as the Indian Tea Market Expansion Board in order to

○A appeal to Indian consumers' sense of national identity

○B escape the TCC's reputation for selling low-quality tea

○C increase the prestige of tea by emphasizing its exotic origins

○D receive a larger budget for marketing tea in India

○E respond to economic conditions created by the Great Depression